“August die she must, the autumn winds will soon blow chilly and cold. September, I remember, a love I once new has now grown old.” Simon & Garfunkel - April Come She Will

September in Utah, is a wonderful time. School is back full time. Kindergarten kids with their scared but wonderous eyes look up at their parents for both support and encouragement as they enter school for the first time. Seniors enter school for the last time as a youth. High School Football and Volleyball are in full swing, while the schools first musical is just beginning to be put together, all the while fathers and mothers are thinking about the future of their children.

This year is no different, the hope of the future is seen in the present. We see it everywhere, and that hope is passed to each member of our communities. It is part of our cultural renewal.

So to is, the return to our masonic blue lodges, where we are able to see brothers we may not have seen all summer long. This, renewal brings back our commitment to the fraternity, our obligations, to each other, and to our masonic families.

It also brings a return to York Rite and the Commandery. I always looked at it as a masonic renewal to our savior.

“The eyes of the Lord are toward the righteous and his ears toward their cry.” ~ Psalm 34:15
